Attractive Gate

Miss Carlotta Preizer of Garnett, Kansas, designed the gate above from an old hay rake wheel. She had the spokes cut and rewelded into place; the handle cut and welded from the pieces left over. It wasn't a difficult job, she says, and makes an attractive front yard gate.

Michigan Farm Earnings May Increase 25 Per Cent

Net earnings on Michigan farms will probably average 25 per cent higher in 1951 than in 1950, Michigan farm economists report. The earning figure in 1950 was about $2,400 per farm compared to $1,800 in 1949 according to records kept on larger and better-than-average Michigan farmers. The $2,400 earning figure in 1950 is $1,050 above the 22 year average, 1929-1950, the report said.

Growing Vegetables Pay Gardener Big Dividends

In times like these, growing your own vegetables can save a surprising amount of money. A recent survey revealed that $5.25 invested in seeds, insecticides, and plant food will pay you back $91.02. That's better than 17 to one on your investment. The $5.25 cost figure assumes you have the basic tools: garden hoe, spading fork, rake and trowel. Also, that you spade the plot, and grow plants from seed."

Nine-Ounce Egg

Rufus Jennings of Oak Knoll farm is shown with a nine-ounce egg laid by one of his 5,000 New Hampshire hens recently. Jennings found no dead bird indicating that the hen survived. The egg is the largest to be weighed on an ordinary egg scale and tops previous U.S. mark of eight and one-half ounces set by Windham, N.H., hen. The Windham hen died.

Nebraska Radio-Active Phosphorus Test Planned

Oat fertilizer tests with radio-active phosphorus are slated for several places in Nebraska this spring, Robert A. Olson, who will be in charge of the tests, said the investigation will be made to find how much phosphorus delivery power there is in several Nebraska soils. Tests will also show what proportions of the phosphorus which is used by oats comes from the soil.

Ample Room Secret To Broiler Raising

Each Bird Needs 0.6 Square Feet of Space

There's good money in broiler raising, providing efficient and scientific production methods are employed. Proper housing that gives sufficient room is a "must" for a successful broiler operation. The University of Delaware agricultural experiment station has found that

In this sectionally-built poultry house, which is 16 feet wide and 60 feet long, an Indiana broiler producer raises 1,200 three-pound broilers every 10 or 11 weeks.

"broilers should be allowed at least 0.6 of a square foot per bird." The farmer who wishes to start raising broilers in a modest way and develop the business gradually, should use the less expandable," sectionally-built poultry house that is ideal. The four-foot sections may be added as required. Some poultry raisers have such buildings 300 feet long, but they may be made as long as required.

These arched-roof buildings are strongly built on a framework of laminated wood rafters and covered with Masonite tempered hardboard, which weathers well and is durable. Their curved shape provides ample headroom, and there are no interior pillars to take up room and impede movement.

Summing up the effects of crowding, the experiment station says: "Rate of growth, uniformity of growth, feed consumption, cost per pound of broiler, and pounds of broilers sold per chick started are production factors adversely affected by crowding broilers."

Northern States Alerted To Cattle Health Threat

Cattle owners in states along the Canadian border are warned to be on guard for outbreaks of bovine anaplasmosis.

This is a malaria-like blood disease of cattle that was once considered mainly a problem of the south and west, where it causes multimillion dollar losses. Now veterinarians also are finding the disease in northern states formerly considered free of it.

Reporting on the problem, the American Veterinary Medical Association said that some cases recently diagnosed in Minnesota were so mild they escaped the owner's attention. Other cases were passed off as some sort of poisoning, simply because nobody figured anaplasmosis would be striking that far north.

Cattle that recover from it remain as carriers, and many of them have been shipped from the badly infected areas to northern states. They look healthy but have anaplasmosis germs in their blood and are a ready source for infection for other cattle.

News Around Town

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

A paragraph from The Gilleraftert marriage often begins when you sink in his arms, and ends with your arms in the sink. —and maybe I should add that my arms are in INK.

In last week's column I stated that more white sand was needed on the beach at Holliday Lake. In today's mail we have this letter:
Dear "Mother Brightleaf,"
I notice in your last week's paper of May 24th the item in "News Around Town," that you drove down to Holliday Lake, and that there was some new picnic tables added to the picnic area. I notice in your paper that the beach needed more white sand. I am having 310 tons of white sand due to arrive there this week for the beach there. So on the News Around Town, would please keep it up so we will know what is going on in old Appomattox, Virginia.
With best of luck to you and the paper.
Sincerely,
Jake S. Woodson, Supt., State Recreational Areas.
Thank you, Mr. Woodson! Come to see us when in Appomattox, and we're wishing a big year for the state recreational areas. E. P. R.)

Don't forget the new bank hours which start tomorrow, June 1. Local banks will close at 2:00 P. M. Do your banking early.

The chairs in the court house look like new. Understand they have had a refinishing job.

After 19 years of hard labor at using type at his linotype machine, Oliver Dardleaf has purchased himself a special typesetter's chair, a "comfort" contraption. He makes everyone who comes in visiting take a seat in his new pride—a big improvement over the makeshift he used the catching way, evidently.

Ray Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Stewart, of Evergreen, was recently tapped for membership in the V. P. I. Chapter of the National Block and Bribble Club. Young Stewart has been active in livestock improvement activities and will soon complete his first year of study in Animal Husbandry at V. P. I.

The Block and Bribble Club is a national fraternity whose active membership is composed of students who are devoted to the development of better livestock and better methods of handling livestock.

Stewart also holds offices in the Baptist Student Union, the 4 - H Alumni Club and the V. P. I. Agricultural Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned LeGrand seem to be progressing rapidly in the building of their new home.

All of you Appomattox baseball fans and friends of Crawford Davidson, plan to attend the game at Lynchburg's City Stadium Monday night. It will be "Crawford Davidson Night" and we want a big crowd. Crawford is an outfielder for the Norfolk Tars. Time: 8 P. M.

Main Street looked like Appomattox was in the big time Wednesday, with many business places displaying the flag for Memorial Day.

A fine summer recreational program has been worked up for the school playground here. Coach Gordon Bragg has signed up around one hundred boys and girls to participate in the program and plans a full program of supervised activity. We have the list of names of those signed up thus far, and will publish them next week.

We regret having to omit a number of news items from this issue, and will get them in next week. We have been especially tied up in job printing all week, and got off to a slow start with the paper!

Home Agent's Notes

By Mrs. B. G. Anderson

Most important room in the farm home is the kitchen—it's important in any home. It no longer needs to be the dreary workshop of former days. Modern conveniences and plenty of storage and work space can transform an old kitchen into a compact, efficient room, and make working a pleasure.

Mrs. J. E. Wooldridge, of Richwood home demonstration club has just remodeled her kitchen and has added built-in cabinets and other modern conveniences. She states, "It's so nice to have a convenient kitchen and all thos grand storage space for things within easy reach."

Mrs. H. E. Torrence, of Lee club recently remodeled her kitchen. She has all the conveniences in cabinets, frozen food locker, eating center, and a special wash basin for the workmen to wash their hands before meals. She says this "washup" center is very helpful, convenient and the time.

Studies show that old-fashioned kitchens can be replanned and modernized to save from one to three hours of the woman's time every day! Whether you decide on the L or U-shaped kitchen, it should be planned carefully so it will be a practical work area to save steps, stoops, backackes and temper. It should be planned so there will be no cross traffic through the work area.

Homemakers Are Advised To Freeze, Can Surpluses

In order to insure enough food for any emergency the government is asking homemakers to preserve more food. Since large numbers of homemakers have no access to garden plots, a feature of this year's program will be to encourage the canning and freezing of seasonal surpluses. By following this program homemakers will supplement their larder and augment the over-all supply.
